

Comparison of Electro-physiological Conduction Techniques in the Diagnosis of Carpal Tunnel Syndrome: A study of 30 cases was done by Dr Gautam Tripathy and published in Annals Of Indian Academy of Neurology.

The Nerve Conduction Study results of a prospective study of 30 successive cases of carpal tunnel syndrome were studied in the electrophysiological lab of a suburban Mumbai Hospital. The sensitivity of nine different electrophysiological tests were studied and compared with earlier studies.